John Dean's Story Denied By Haldeman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman testified today that he approved a $90,000 campaign budget for "black projects" prior to the Republican national convention last year. He said he didn't know what the projects were.

Haldeman began answering questions of the Senate Watergate committee after testifying Monday that he listened to two White House tapes he said refute John W. Dean III's testimony about two key meetings with President Nixon.

Haldeman acknowledged that he had approved a memorandum, dated Feb. 3, 1972, seeking campaign funds for White House political projects, such as presidential travel and mailings to special-interest groups. Among the items was $90,000 for "black projects" to be carried out by Charles W. Colson, another White House adviser.

Asked what the projects were, Haldeman said, "I'm not sure." He said he didn't think they had anything to do with previously disclosed "black advance" work, because Colson wasn't an advance man.

Former campaign aide Robert C. Mardian testified earlier that he was told the Nixon reelection campaign had an extensive budget for "black advance" work, which he described as political sabotage.

Haldeman said the budget memo only covered campaign funds that would be needed through Aug. 20, 1972, the time of the Republican convention.

Committee chief counsel Samuel Dash initiated the interrogation of the former presidential aide by asking a long line of questions about Haldeman's education, his previous associations with Nixon, and his role as administrative boss of the White House staff.

Haldeman said he ran a "tight ship" at the White House, reaching for a goal of "zero defects."

"We tried to do everything right," Haldeman said.

Haldeman, once the President's closest aide, told the panel in a 94-page opening statement Monday the tapes do not support Dean's assertion that Nixon knew of the Watergate cover-up months before Nixon said he learned of it.

The former White House chief of staff said his recollection of the meetings, refreshed by listening to the tapes, confirmed that many of the subjects Dean said were discussed were in fact taken up—but he directly contradicted Dean's version of those portions that would implicate the President.

Haldeman also testified that Dean appeared to be genuinely confused about a third meeting between the three men because subjects Dean said came up at that meeting actually were discussed a week later.

The Senate panel is preparing to go to court, probably this week, in an effort to force Nixon to release the tapes. The disclosure that Haldeman had listened to two of them immediately raised the question of why he should have access when the committee and special prosecutor Archibald Cox had been refused.

Later, the White House said two other Nixon aides—J. Fred Buzhardt and Stephen Bull—had listened to two tape recordings.

Haldeman said he listened to the tape of a March 21 meeting while he was still chief of staff, but the recording of a Sept. 15, 1972, meeting was made available to him in July, after Dean had testified and after Haldeman had resigned from the White House staff.

"I think it's a strange thing that Mr. Haldeman can hear the tapes, but this committee cannot hear them," said Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the panel.

According to Dean, whom Nixon fired as presidential counsel, the Sept. 15 meeting was the first indication Dean had that Nixon was aware of the cover-up. That was the day the indictments came down against the original seven defendants.

The 34-year-old lawyer testified "The President told me I had done a good job and he appreciated how difficult a task it had been and the President was pleased that the case had stopped with (convicted conspirator G. Gordon) Liddy."

Haldeman said the meeting did not open with "anything even remotely resembling" the President telling him what a good job Dean had done.

Dean swore, "I left the meeting with the impression the President was well aware of what had been going on regarding the success of keeping the White House out of the Watergate scandal, and I also had expressed to him my concern that I was not confident that the cover-up could be maintained indefinitely."

Haldeman countered, "I totally disagree with the conclusion that the President was aware of any type of cover-up, and certainly Mr. Dean did not advise him of it at the Sept. 15 meeting."

The March 21 meeting, which both men discussed in similar detail, was by Nixon's own account the source of new information that led him to launch his own broad investigation of Watergate this spring.

According to Dean's account, one of the most incriminating sessions he had with the President occurred on March 13, eight days before the meeting at which he said he gave Nixon a complete picture of the Watergate affair.

On March 13, Dean testified, "I told the President about the fact that there were money demands being made by the seven convicted defendants ... He asked me how much it would cost.

"I told him that I could only make an estimate that it might be as high as $1 million or more. He told me that that was no problem, and he also looked over at Haldeman and repeated the same statement.

"He then asked me who was demanding the money, and I told him it was principally coming from Hunt through his attorney. The President then referred to the fact that Hunt had been promised executive clemency."

Haldeman testified, "Some of what he describes in quite vivid detail as happening on March 13 did, in fact, happen on March 21. I seriously doubt that the conversation John Dean has described actually took place on March 13."

Haldeman said the discussion about the $1 million did come up at the later meeting.

"The President said, 'There is no problem in raising $1 million; we can do that, but it would be wrong,'" Haldeman quoted him.

The dates are significant because by Dean's account the President was aware of the cover-up for many months and cooperated in efforts to perpetuate it.

By Haldeman's account, however, the President didn't gain any incriminating knowledge until March 21, when he says he set in motion the investigation that led to clearing up the whole affair.

Haldeman's lengthy defense of the President was also a defense of himself as the man closest to the President and accused by Dean, Magruder and others of a leading role in the cover-up.

"I had no knowledge or involvement" in the break-in or cover-up," Haldeman swore.

Nixon Stand On Tapes Weakened?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may have undermined his own legal position against releasing White House tapes to investigators, the chief counsel of the Senate Watergate committee said.

By allowing H. R. Haldeman to listen to one of the tapes after he had become a private citizen, Nixon may have damaged his claim that the tapes are confidential presidential papers, chief counsel Samuel Dash said Monday.

Haldeman told the committee Monday that President Nixon asked him in July to listen to one of the tapes and report to him its contents. Haldeman had resigned as Nixon's chief of staff in April.

Haldeman checked the tape out from the Secret Service, took it home and listened to it alone, he said. He took notes and reported to Nixon on what he heard, the former White House aide testified.

Despite Haldeman's statement, President Nixon remains steadfastly opposed to providing the tapes to the committee and to special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, a White House spokesman said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon will continue to resist subpoenas for the tapes from Cox and the committee.

The President last talked directly to Haldeman in June, said Warren,

Weather

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers today, tonight and tomorrow. Possibility of rain is 70 per cent today and tonight, 40 per cent Wednesday. High Monday, 84; low, 63. High today, 85. Low tonight, 65. High Wednesday, 65.

refusing to divulge what was discussed.

Warren said J. Fred Buzhardt, special presidential counsel, and Stephen B. Bull, a presidential assistant, also have listened to tapes.

The tape Haldeman said he listened to after leaving office was of a meeting between himself, Nixon and John W. Dean III, then White House counsel, on Sept. 15, 1972.

According to Dean's testimony to the committee, Nixon indicated then that he was aware of the Watergate cover-up. However, Haldeman said the tape failed to support Dean's conclusion.

In a related development, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., charged that Nixon was obstructing justice and covering up the cover-up by refusing to turn tapes and White House documents over to Cox.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson later issued a statement saying from the outset "it was made clear that some documents might be kept away from the special prosecutor on the grounds of executive privilege or some other privilege."

But Cox, Richardson said, has "explicit authority to challenge such privilege in court should he see fit," a move Cox already has taken.

Gas Shortage End Is Seen

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—An executive of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio said Monday the gas shortage in the state will ease by 1975 with the completion of construction of new refineries.

Henry O'Brien, advertising manager at the Cleveland office, said shortages may worsen until new refineries meet current demand.

"We are seeing only the tip of an iceberg right now. Under the tip lies a couple or more years of tight gas supplies," O'Brien told Lima Rotarians.

He said the complete picture includes "this country's coming historic change from self-sufficiency in crude oil supplies to dependence, mainly on Middle East Arab states."

Meat Shortage By This Weekend Reported Likely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of a large Midwestern-Southern retail food chain says the nation's supermarkets will run out of many cuts of meat by this weekend.

"The cattle simply are not being brought to market," Lyle Everingham, president of Kroger Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, said Monday.

The beef shortage has forced Kroger to lay off 400 workers in 13 meat-processing plants, Everingham said. He predicted further layoffs unless the Phase 4 price ceiling on beef is lifted.

The federal freeze on beef prices also was cited by a union official in New York City who predicted that "housewives of this city and this nation will find there is little if any beef and beef products to be bought anywhere" by the end of the week.

The ceilings are slated to remain on beef until Sept. 12.

One food chain, Finast, posted signs at meat counters asking customers to be "a good neighbor by buying only what you need so there will be enough for everyone."

The warnings from food retailers and meat processors of an impending meat shortage were disputed by the deputy director of the federal Cost of Living Council, who said meat industry pressure to lift the beef price ceiling would be resisted.

Direct and indirect assaults on the beef price freeze were coming from inside and outside the country.

The Iowa Cattlemen's Association claimed that Canadian meat packers were circumventing the freeze by purchasing cattle in Iowa and Nebraska for processing in Canada and resale in the United States.

Larry Kallem, executive vice president of the organization, said Canadian packers can make a profit because meat imports to the United States were not affected by the price ceiling on domestic beef.

In Seattle, meat packers from a dozen Western states charged on Monday in a federal suit against the Nixon administration that the freeze is discriminatory.

Calling themselves, "scapegoats," the meat packers charged that many companies will have to close or operate at a loss unless the beef freeze ceiling is lifted.

Campaign Reform Bill's Future Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — An uncertain future lies ahead in the House for a Watergate spawned campaign reform bill passed by the Senate.

The bill, intended to curb "big-money influence" in elections, would sharply limit campaign contributions and campaign spending and establish an independent enforcement agency.

While the Senate was passing the bill 82-to-8 Monday, the House balked at even considering a bill to open the way for congressional pay raises in this non-election year.

The vote in the House was 237 to 156 against taking up the pay bill which the Senate passed July 9 with no debate or roll call vote.

So far the House has shown scant interest in the type of campaign financing legislation passed by the Senate. Some senators suggested it had been made so restrictive that it is unlikely to survive in the House.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, praised some features of the bill but said it may do more to reelect incumbents than to reform campaigns.

But Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said the bill's controls on campaign spending were "a direct response to the Watergate scandal." In that respect, he said, the measure "represents silver lining in the black cloud of Watergate."

Campaign spending for congressional and presidential candidates would be limited to 10 cents for each voting age person in primaries and 15 cents in general elections.

In the case of presidential candidates, on the basis of the latest population figures, this would set a limit of $13.9 million in primaries and $20.8 million in general elections.

The amount Senate candidates could spend in general election campaigns would range up to slightly more than $2 million in California. A minimum of $175,000 would be allowed in the least populous states.

Individuals could contribute no more than $3,000 to a candidate for federal office for each of his campaigns in a primary, general election or runoff. The same limit would apply to political committees.

In addition, a ceiling of $25,000 would be placed on an individual's total contributions in a year to all candidates for federal office and no cash contributions in excess of $50 would be permitted.

A bipartisan, 7-member commission would be established to enforce the legislation and the campaign financing reports required by legislation passed in 1971.

All the members of the Senate Watergate committee voted for the bill except for Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the vice chairman. He voted present after saying the legislation was premature until the committee had concluded its probe.

The Senate passed by voice vote a bill recommended by President Nixon providing for a 16-member commission to make a sweeping study of election laws and the whole electoral process.

The commission would be required to submit its recommendations within a year.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Keep New Nose Quiet

DEAR ABBY: For my high school graduation, my parents gave me a new nose. I had it done last week, and even though it's still swollen, I just love it! I am going east to college in the fall. I will be meeting lots of new kids, and my mother told me that I shouldn't tell anybody I had my nose done. I told her I hadn't planned on wearing a sign saying: "I had my nose done," but if it comes up in a conversation, I am not going to lie about it.

She said it would be foolish for me to admit it, and she asked me to promise her I wouldn't tell anybody.

I respect my mother's opinion, and I know she means the best for me, but I just can't make her that kind of promise. This is the first really serious conflict we have ever had. Am I wrong? Or is she?

NOSE JOB

DEAR NOSE JOB: Mother usually knows best, but not this time.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with Steve and he is very much in love with me. We plan to be married in September. There is only one problem: I am also very much in love with my job.

I'm a secretary and have been with the same company for five years. I intend to keep on working after we are married. I guess you could say I am career-minded.

Steve says before we get married I must promise that I will not work over eight hours a day, and I'll not work at all on Saturdays. Right now I work more than eight hours many days, and I work on Saturdays, too.

Steve doesn't think a woman can be married and have a career, too. I disagree. Abby, do you think it's fair for a man to ask a woman to give up something that means as much to her as my jobs means to me? I love Steve and don't want to lose him, but I also love this job. Please settle this.

STEVE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: It's all right for a girl to like her job, but if she is "in love" with her job, her love life with a real live man is in trouble. I don't think Steve's requests are unreasonable, but if you do, hold off those wedding bells. I hear a clinker in the belfry.

Dear Abby: Is there a way for a couple to be assured they will get the sex child they want? I have heard there is a foolproof method for getting a boy or a girl, whichever the couple prefers. If you know how this can be accomplished with positively no chance of failure, please respond at once, and I will send $25 to any charity you designate.

FATHER OF SIX DAUGHTERS

DEAR FATHER: Yes. ADOPT! Send $25 to your local Planned Parenthood chapter.

DEAR ABBY: Grandma wrote that she was embarrassed because her grandson bragged so much about his war record, even saying that he had won 11 purple hearts. She should use an old Jewish saying next time "Junior" starts to boast:

"Do not make yourself so big

You are not so small.

Terhune Appointed To Education Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert H. Terhune, federal educational projects administrator for the Ohio Youth Commission, has been elected director of Region III of the National Correctional Education Association, it was announced today.

Terhune is a former state agriculture director.

'Ike The Bike' Promotes Safety

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bicycles aren't supposed to talk, but Ike, the pride of the Cleveland Automobile Club, does.

He tells students in kindergarten through third grade about bicycle safety.

George Tewksbary, safety director of the Cleveland unit of the American Automobile Association created "Ike the Talking Bike," whose voice is a tap recording in his head lamp that is operated by remote control.

"Always ride single file," says Ike to his children. "Ride only one on a bike."

Ike has 15 check points that light up, including horn, head lamp and reflector. "These are some of the safety features a bicycle should have," said Tewksbary.

Ike also tells children to ride with the flow of traffic not against it. "Most parents teach their kids to ride bikes like they walk," said Tewksbary. "That's a major traffic hazard."

Sewage Treatment Funds Released

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Controlling Board today released $2.2 million for construction of three sewage treatment facilities.

The money, requested by the Ohio Water Development Authority, will go to Wilmington, ($123,176); Wooster, ($361,359), and the Marion County Sewer District, $1,888,029).

The board, watchdog of government spending, also released $300,000 in appropriated funds for Miami University to buy McKee Hall from the Western College, which adjoins the MU campus.

The university will take over Western College after the coming school year for an additional $1 million.

ADVERTISEMENT AND NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Public Utilities until 12:00 Noon local prevailing time on August 28, 1973 at the Manager's Office, 114 West Franklin Street, Circleville, Ohio.

The work for which proposals are invited is included under Contract No. 1 and consists of furnishing all labor, materials and equipment necessary to construct a water pollution control plant in accordance with the drawings and as specified.

Bidders of the Contract Documents are on file and may be obtained at the Manager's Office in Circleville at any time between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. These documents may be purchased for One Hundred Dollars ($100.00).

As bid security, each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond with an approved surety company, in the amount of ten per cent (10 per cent) of the total amount of the base bid. The bidder to whom a contract is awarded will be required to furnish performance and payment bonds from an acceptable surety company in the total amount of the contract. Bidders on this work will be required to comply with the President's Executive Order No. 11246. The requirements for bidders under this order, which concerns non-discrimination in employment, are explained in the contract documents under Labor Standards and Requirements.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, to waive informalities and to award contracts which, in the opinion of the City, appear to be in its best interest. The right is reserved to hold any or all proposals for a period of thirty (30) days of opening thereof.

bicycle accidents across the nation last year, Tewksbary said.

In 1971, the AAA conducted a survey of 1,723 cities. It showed that 850 persons died in bicycle fatalities that year, 76 per cent up from the previous three years. The survey also showed that three-fourths of the riders involved in the accidents were between the ages of 5 and 14.

In the first five months of this year, Tewksbary said, 21 more died in bicycle accidents in Ohio—three of them in the Greater Cleveland area.

Ignorance of bicycle laws is one problem, but Tewksbary and others in the safety field said the laws themselves aren't uniform.

George Usher, chairman of the Cuyahoga County Uniform Bicycle Code Committee, said representatives from 56 communities have been meeting since last fall in an attempt to unify all of the bicycle laws in Cuyahoga County alone.

They seek agreement on nine major points, including the age of a child should be allowed to ride on a street, safety features, bicycle registration and violation penalties.

Ike stresses proper maintenance. "I keep my handle bars and saddle adjusted," says Ike. "I keep my spokes, pedals and chain well oiled. I check my tires, wheels and brakes regularly."

Ike has given about 150 programs since last March. Since his debut, said Tewksbary, seven other communities have asked for an Ike of their own.

Persistent Problem

One of the military services' major problems has not been overcome, judging by two Pentagon studies on the subject of alcohol abuse. Based on studies of 11,000 Army and Navy personnel, the Pentagon has projected some startling statistics on alcoholism in the military.

Twenty per cent of the Navy men in the first five ranks viewed their drinking habits as serious, but the severity tended to taper off after the men passed their mid-20s. In the Army, the situation was found to be worse.

Forty-four per cent of young enlisted personnel in the Army were found to be "problem drinkers." About two-thirds of these were described as "binge" drinkers, defined as individuals who consumed at least five drinks per day at least four days a week.

"Junior enlisted men (in the Army)" said one report, "have an exceptionally high rate of binge drinking and job, police and financial problems related to alcohol."

The much heralded drug problems brought home by servicemen returning from Vietnam pale alongside the drug problems of longer standing in the services.

Nixon's Nakedness

By JEFFREY HART

Seldom can a national administration have been as politically naked as the Nixon regime finds itself in its hour of dire need.

The revelation of the White House tapes changes the whole Watergate ball game. Legal niceties aside, the country simply will not permit witnesses to contradict one another under oath before the Ervin committee while President Nixon sits on the evidence. Everyone knows that the pertinent sections of the tapes could be isolated from the rest. This, therefore, could be Nixon's definitive crisis.

But he confronts it at a time when he has been virtually stripped of potent, active constituencies around the country. Run down the list:

(1) From the outset, the Nixon Administration has been based on one unproven assumption: That you could govern in Washington without liberal approval. It is unlikely, of course, the liberal minority would approve of any regime but its own, and it is therefore possible that the liberals in fact possess a veto power in national politics. From the beginning, then, Nixon in effect made a bet that he could govern without the support or approval of the academy, much of the press, the electronic media, and much of the foundation-bureaucratic world. Cross off one major constituency.

(2) Contrary to the conventional view, the Nixon Administration has not enjoyed the full confidence of large corporate enterprise, and this remains true despite the huge 1972 Republican campaign fund.

The problem here is not ideological. It rather involves doubt about the competence and decisiveness of the Administration in vital economic matters. The top people in the petroleum industry, for example, speak enviously of the brisk way in which six very diverse governments in Western Europe have moved ahead in concert to develop the North Sea oil deposits. By 1980 the North Sea operation is likely to be producing some $3 billion of oil in annual yield. By contrast, Washington has moved at a snail's pace in connection with the much larger Arctic deposits in our own hemisphere. Large corporate wealth in America is not accustomed to envying places like London, Paris, Oslo, and Bonn.

The same critical, arms-length attitude prevails elsewhere in the business community. It is reflected in the stock market.

A republican Administration that does not have the powerful, active support of this segment of the community is in trouble.

(3) Nixon's ultimate constituency, however, consists of "Middle Americans," the Silent Majority to whom he appealed so effectively in both of his Presidential campaigns. This is not a monolithic constituency. Segments of it have been alienated by inflation, others by the abortion decision of the Nixon Court, and so on. But it has also been peculiarly vulnerable, as a whole, to the revelation of Watergate misdeeds. By and large, it has not turned against Nixon, but it won't march for him politically either. As a political power-base, it has been neutralized to a significant degree.

In this ultimate crisis of his career, therefore, Nixon has been thrust peculiarly on his own resources. Those tapes had better be good.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There's more than one kind of money circulating today, as most workers are well aware. They may be paid in cash or check, and that's money; and they might receive some of their pay in benefits, and that's another kind.

In fact, some companies permit their executives to choose the type of money in which they are paid, offering them what is called cafeteria compensation, or the opportunity to pick and choose their own combinations of cash and benefits.

You can also easily distinguish between current money and future money. Your take-home pay is current, but the money that goes into your pension or insurance program is future money, and might be worth less or more.

After-tax money is substantially different than before-tax money, a fact familiar to all, especially those who are lacking in deductions or who failed to find tax shelters.

There is also money that comes without instruction on how to use it, and that which comes with advice on how to invest, how to limit tax payments, how to build an estate—in short, money that begets money.

It is this latter kind that in the past year has become, according to the Conference Board, the most popular new fringe benefit for executives of large corporations, partly because of complex tax laws.

Of 269 companies that responded to a survey, 80 said they have adopted a plan and 24 are actively considering doing so, almost half of them because they believe key executives will be able to devote more time to business.

Many, however, said the adoption of such plans demonstrates their concern for the well-being of executives, and while not rendering other reasons any less true, this answer could be the more pertinent response.

The fact is that two executives earning relatively similar salaries year after year might build up estates whose values differ by multiples of six figures because of the wisdom or lack of wisdom with which the money was invested.

Knowing this, many executives believe that compensation accompanied by expert advice is worth a lot more than money without any instructions or assistance on usage. It is considered premium money.

The study found that the majority, of the more successful plans are limited to officers earning more than $60,000 a year and that most of them emphasize estate planning and investing strategy and include preparation of income tax returns.

Financial planning has long been one of the skills of corporation, and financial advice has long been one of the needs of executives, but many companies have been reluctant to enter the area.

According to the Conference Board, an education and research organization supported mainly by business, many companies still fear being blamed by the executive for misguided investments.

Nevertheless, the growing complexity of wise money management, and the obvious versus none at all, is clearly causing resistance to break down.

Eighty-three per cent of the plans used by corporations provide counsel in estate planning; 66 per cent give specific investment advice, 58 per cent help select compensation plan options, and 55 per cent advise on insurance planning.

Investments that most frequently result from these plans are in real estate, 34 per cent and equities, 31 per cent. Oil and gas drilling ventures figure in 25 per cent of the plans, income tax return services in 28 per cent, and employee will and personal financial budgeting in 24 per cent.

The Pickaway County Board of Elections created three new precincts in the Circleville voting area.

Board officials declared the division of several precincts necessary due to the large number of voters in areas affected. Then the city's total was 18 precincts; the county's was 50.

Approximately 400 employees and their guests enjoyed a chicken barbecue and an afternoon of contests, swimming and roller skating at Gold Cliff Park. They were guests of John W. Eshelman & Sons, local feed manufacturers.

Rapidly nearing construction was the new building at the Circleville DuPont plant. The new facility housed operations for production of "Teflon" FEP film and "H" film. The Du Pont film family here also included "Mylar" which had been in production since 1954.

A novelty in itself was a program conducted by the Circleville Art League. Members conducted an all-day sketching session in front of the Charles May residence on S. Court St. Those who desired a free-hand sketch of themselves enjoyed the privilege.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can you tell me something about the condition called "detached retina of the eye"? My uncle has had two attacks. Is there any way to prevent it or permanently cure it?

Miss T.O., Pa.

Dear Miss O.:

Detachment of the retina is one of the most difficult problems that comes to the attention of the eye specialist.

The retina is a fine, delicate membrane that lines the back of the eye. All images are concentrated on this remarkable structure which plays a vital role in the process of vision.

The retina can be compared to the sensitized film in the back of a camera.

Special rods and cones within the retina account for the finest differentiations of color.

A hole in the retina and the separation of the retina from its normal position causes sudden impairment of vision.

There was a time, not many years ago, when this very serious complication was viewed with tremendous anxiety by eye specialists. Today, there are a number of highly refined techniques that can repair the hole in the retina and return the detached retina to its normal position.

One of the newest methods is the use of the LASER beam (Light Amplification Stimulated by Emission of Radiation) for detachment of the retina. It is probably the most intense light that has been created by man.

It can be painlessly used, without surgery, to penetrate and coagulate the rip in the retina.

Many other exciting techniques are being studied, refined, and devised by dedicated researchers working at the Retina Foundation in Boston.

It is hoped that the present activity here and in other institutions in America and abroad will eventually bring to light better ways of preventing these retinal tears.

Is there still any valid reason why I should not have been allowed to have my 6 and 8 year old children visit me while I was in the hospital?

I found that I missed them terribly and I really believe that their concern about me would have been relieved if they had come to see me.

Mrs. J.H., Maine

Dear Mrs. H.:

There are very sound reasons why children are not permitted to visit in hospitals.

The chances of cross-contamination (by germs) are greater with youngsters than in adults.

There is, of course, the additional factor that children become restless and may interfere with normal and especially unusual situations that can and do occur in hospitals.

A number of hospitals are experimenting with limited visits by children in order to reduce the separation anxiety you speak of.

It has occurred to me that closed-circuit television would allow children to see and speak to their hospitalized parent from a central waiting room in the hospital.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Instead of thinking so much of yourself during times of boredom or discontent, do you ever stop to ask yourself the question "What am I doing to aid those who need my help?" If so, then you are the perfect person to volunteer your services to the American Red Cross. Not only will you be rendering your services to a worthwhile organization, but you will be gaining a self satisfaction from knowing you have performed a "good deed".

Your first response to this plea for assistance may be "Well, I should offer my services, but..."—but what? Just offering a few hours a month to drive an afflicted person to the hospital, or to aid the Red Cross in a swimming program, or to share a special talent you might possess with someone who is lonely, or offering your time for numerous other tasks which need special attention will be appreciated more than you could ever imagine by those in need.

Before you completely disregard the thoughts of helping the Red Cross, familiarize yourself with the programs which are available and at least make a fair rationalization of why your support of the local chapter would be worthless. If nothing else, you owe this much to yourself!

The next time you feel that you have problems, start helping those who are in much worse shape than yourself. From your good intentions your end results will be two-fold: Not only will your problems become minute, but the problems of others will be alleviated. Can you think of a better way to comfort yourself than through comforting others? Don't just think about your responses to this question, but act on them. Procrastination will get you no where—act now!

ELIZABETH MOON

DEAR EDITOR:

During these times of "peace with honor" and the highest standard of living we have ever had, Washington is applying its National Crisis legislation such as freezes and price restrictions. To what would we turn if a real national crisis should arise?

When new automobiles cost too much, the sensible alternative is not to buy one. When new buildings are prohibitive due to labor and material costs, don't build them.

Perhaps if farmers were released from controls, then the most reliable of laws would take effect — supply and demand.

The frantic and inept "phase legislation" we are muddling through at the present time is reminiscent of a boss I had one time who jokingly said, "Well, let's do something even if it's wrong."

Nixon's obsession to keep bombing Cambodia in spite of the feeling of congress and the general public is obstinacy and autocracy to the highest degree.

Maybe some people are destined for crisis (his book "My Seven Crises" should have been 70) and I am afraid Nixon is one of these. I would like to have a little tranquility with my peace.

Blue Angels Cancel Programs After Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has grounded the Blue Angels after a crash killed three members of the precision flying team.

Rear Adm. William Thompson, Navy information chief, said on Saturday that 23 demonstrations scheduled through November have been canceled and the program is under review.

Secretary of the Navy John Warner has asked key Navy officials to evaluate the program, which he said is used to attract public attention and aid recruiting.

The fatal crash in Lakehurst, N.J., last Thursday brought to six the number of Blue Angel aircraft lost this year, Thompson said. However, the earlier crashes in El Centro, Calif., and Lake Charles, La., did not cause fatalities.

New Look Taken At Stringent Air Cleanup Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, reacting to government proposals that would sharply restrict automobile use in urban areas, is preparing to order a re-evaluation of the 1970 Clean Air Act.

But supporters of the act deny abandonment of the goal of cleaning the nation's air by the end of the decade.

In fact, a Senate staff member who helped write the act says health standards the law is designed to protect are necessary and in some cases may not be rigorous enough.

The most-disputed section of the act requires that automobile manufacturers produce a virtually pollution-free engine by Jan. 1, 1976.

It is that deadline that prompted, in part, the Senate movement for a review.

At the request of original sponsors of the Clean Air Act, the Senate is expected shortly to authorize $300,000 for the National Academy of Sciences to review the health findings on which the 1976 deadline was based.

The key question is whether Congress placed too high a premium on clean air while ignoring economic and social disruptions that might result.

When the bill was being debated 2½ years ago, its chief author, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said repeatedly that the measure was based on protection of public health and not on economic or technological feasibility.

But now some environmentalists are taking the position generally adopted by automobile manufacturers: that given more time the industry might be able to develop an anti-pollution device more acceptable than the catalytic-converted system.

Muskie, whose public works subcommittee wrote the act, and other backers have noted public concern over proposals issued by the Environmental Protection Agency for implementation of the law.

For example, EPA has proposed pollution-fighting transportation controls that could eliminate the automobile from Los Angeles streets and could reduce driving in sections of New Jersey by 68 per cent by 1977.

In other areas, gasoline sales would be limited, on-street parking banned, and idling of auto engines restricted.

In announcing the proposals, EPA acting Administrator Robert W. Fri conceded they might cause disruptions. But he said he had no alternative because of provisions in the law requiring nationwide clean air standards by mid-1977.

However, Fri said EPA will ask Congress in September to consider extending the deadlines for hardest hit areas.

Noise Abatement Proposals Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has written new aircraft noise regulations that could mean sounder sleep for millions of Americans who live under the landing patterns of commercial jetliners.

The rules are to be proposed Tuesday. If approved by the Federal Aviation Administration they would mean changes in operating procedures for pilots and airport operators, and possibly millions in expenditures for the nation's airlines.

Besides the aircraft rules, the EPA also said it will release new noise regulations for trucks Tuesday, and will discuss its plans for noise regulations for trains.

The proposals were requested by Congress. However, Congress gave the FAA veto power over them to insure that the rules would not interfere with airline safety.

There was no advance word on what the EPA will suggest.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The president of a public interest group filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court here Monday charging the former head of the Franklin County Probation Department with false arrest and false imprisonment.

The suit was filed by Concerned Citizens Corp. President John Timson against Jay Smith, who was fired from the probation department last month by the Franklin County Common Pleas Court on a charge of malfeasance.

Timson's suit contends that Smith tried for several years to have him committed to the Columbus State Institute. He is seeking $50,000 in damages.

Riot Ruins Oklahoma Penitentiary

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — An observer looked around at the rubble that was once the Oklahoma State Penitentiary and muttered: "It's a hell of a way to get a new prison."

A weekend riot saw 23 persons held hostage, at least two convicts killed, 17 inmates and three guards injured and the prison all but totally destroyed. Damage from fires set by the insurgents was estimated to be between $20 million and $30 million.

National Guardsmen and police gained complete control of the prison by Sunday afternoon, and officials found themselves faced with the problem of where to put the 1,750 inmates in what little remains of the institution.

Security was a major concern because the inmates destroyed the cell block locking system.

Since the only structures left relatively intact were the administration building and cell blocks, a military field mess was brought in to feed the inmates.

Meanwhile, the search continued through the rubble for any additional dead or injured.

The damage to the cell blocks was minor, mostly trash and garbage strewn about. But once in the prison yard, the destruction resembled a bombed-out city.

Empty shells of buildings, some four stories high, stood amid the ruins on the ground. Most were still smoldering

LSH Abuse Under Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The department of Mental Health and Mental retardation was to pledge its cooperation with the courts to resolve inmate abuse complaints at Lima State Hospital today.

The director of the department, Dr. Kenneth Gaver, was to hold a news conference with Atty. Gen. William Brown to explain the department's intention.

"We are proceeding with changes at the hospital, but want to state our intention to cooperate fully with the courts in resolving grievances at Lima. We hope the lawsuit will speed things up," a department spokesman said.

At least 15 residents at Lima State joined in a class action lawsuit against the department.

The suit contends patients receive inadequate care and treatment, deprivation of due process of law in commitment procedures and questions of the constitutionality of the law under which persons are sent to the hospital.

Alka-Seltzer Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Removal of Alka-Seltzer from the market until it is reformulated was proposed Sunday by a Health Research Group headed by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

The group asked that the product be reformulated without aspirin.

The Food and Drug Administration is considering standards for antacids, and an advisory committee report earlier this year recommended that Alka-Seltzer be allowed to remain on the market as a nonprescription drug provided it was relabeled to indicate that it should be taken only by persons suffering from both headache and acid indigestion.

The committee said combination products are inappropriate for persons with peptic ulcers and related disorders and could lead to gastrointestinal injury or aspirin poisoning.

The Nader group charged that Miles Laboratories, makers of Alka-Seltzer, withheld a study allegedly questioning the drug's safety until after the advisory committee made its report.

Sunday night from fires that had burned since the uprising started Friday.

The rioting prisoners made four central demands during the uprising:

—Total amnesty for ringleaders.

—Formation of a popularly elected inmate council to represent the inmates in dealing with the prison administration.

—Access to U.S. Justice Department attorneys and attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union.

—Suspension of a long-time prison employee who they said hated the prisoners.

Officials said the riot stemmed in part from the inmates' being unaware of recent policy changes.

Officials said they can repair the cell blocks sufficiently to house the inmates temporarily. But when asked if the cell blocks could be used permanently, Ed Hardy, press secretary for Gov. David Hall, shook his head and said, "No way." Hall has asked the federal government about the possibility of housing some in federal institutions and may have to ask other states to take some.

Gov. Hall said on Sunday that U.S. House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., promised to try to get federal funds to help rebuild the prison. The Oklahoma Crime Commission will hold an emergency meeting Tuesday to determine if they can use some of the federal grants already in hand.

Keep America beautiful, but keep America alive!

Some of America's most beautiful resort areas lie along the Atlantic Coast. And no one wants to mar their beauty. It's much too valuable a natural resource.

But, there's another tremendously valuable natural resource over the horizon along the Atlantic Coast. Energy. Energy that is desperately needed to help ease our nation's worsening energy crisis.

We must not sacrifice one resource for the other.

And we needn't. Modern techniques for under-water drilling and delivery of fuel have eliminated the danger of permanent environmental damage. An offshore drilling rig won't even be seen from the shore. And offshore production will reduce the need for increased tanker traffic.

Developing domestic sources of energy is essential to the security of our nation.

If our own sources of energy lie idle, America becomes dependent on expensive and insecure foreign sources, and sends more of our dollars overseas.

The Atlantic Coast areas depend on a prosperous America.

And a prosperous America depends on energy.

Since 1968, Columbia Gas has been participating in costly geophysical surveys off the Atlantic Coast. The tests range from North Carolina to Nova Scotia. We've also joined a 25 million dollar drilling exploration program off Canada's east coast, a promising source of clean, natural gas to help ease the energy crisis.

Get Away From Same Dinners Try Potato Or Fish Dishes

HALIBUT STEAKS — These are baked with a topping of melted butter, ground almonds and a drizzle of lemon juice.

BY JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Sick of cooking the same old thing? We all get in that mood now and again, and it's a sure sign that a change-of-pace menu is in order. Here are three suggestions to try when you feel like something different. They are meatless main dishes that are usually delicious.

Good, earthy potatoes, still one of your best buys at the supermarket, are the basis for a potato pudding that bakes to a crusty, golden-brown and unmolds hot onto a platter for serving. Surround the pudding with your choice of vegetables and dinner is served:

SWISS POTATO PUDDING

3 tablespoons butter
3 pounds potatoes (8-10 medium), peeled
1 pound Switzerland Swiss cheese, coarsely grated
6 green onions, sliced
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Paprika
Preheat oven to 450 F.

Use all 3 tablespoons of butter to grease the bottom and sides of a 2-quart charlotte mold or casserole. Coarsely grate potatoes. Pat dry on paper towels.

In large bowl, mix well-grated potatoes, cheese, onions, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Pour into greased casserole. Do not pack down. If all of mixture does not fit, add remainder after casserole has baked about 5 minutes since shrinkage will occur. Bake casserole one hour. Sprinkle with paprika.

To serve, invert pudding onto large platter. Surround with fresh cooked vegetables.

Makes 6 servings.

Steam or boil the vegetables of your choice in the smallest possible amount of water so they come to the table full of flavor, vitamins and minerals. Then spark them with:

ROSY DRESSING FOR VEGETABLES

1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons yogurt
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 tablespoon minced green onion
1 teaspoon lemon pepper marinade
Combine all ingredients. Beat with a fork until well blended. Refrigerate. Serve over fresh cooked vegetables.

Fabric City Bought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Spokesmen for Lee Wards, a division of General Mills, Inc., said Monday that the company has acquired Fabric City, Inc., a Columbus-based retailer of fabrics and sewing items. The spokesmen did not disclose the purchase price.

Pickled peaches or apricots are great to serve with a ham loaf.

the rising cost of an evening on the town have made the difference, say men and women from New York City to Berkeley, Calif.

"Men used to accept cash under the table. Now, I just go up and pay the bill. They aren't reluctant about it. It's incredible how fast things have changed. In the last 10 years, they've turned upside down," said Kent Juhan, a slender, dark-haired receptionist in an architectural firm in Berkeley.

Women's liberation has brought some women to feel that they want equality all the way.

"Up until about two years ago, I never paid for anything. But I'm paying my share more often. I just like being more independent. By paying occasionally, I have more say about what we do," said Ellen Dayton, 30, who makes about $13,000 working for the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, D.C.

Some men agree; others don't. But in most cases, there is no set rule and a thorny question can arise: Should the woman offer to pay or should the man hint for help?

New York banker David Smith, 31, suggests that women feel they're expected to chip in, liberated or not.

"There's a social pressure for a woman to assert herself and be independent. And there are probably a lot of men who communicate to their dates that they should pay their way because it's now expected," said Smith.

Other men contend that, because women are earning better salaries today, they should be willing to chip in.

Cost is a strong factor, especially the increasingly popular weekend date.

"I like to spend money on a woman. I like the male role, but when it gets to a $150 plane fare, it's a different story," says Charles Markarian of the days he used to pay the entire tab for a skiing weekend. Markarian, 30, is a garment manufacturer in Bergenfield, N.J.

Some men also complain that some women talk plenty about liberation but are strangely silent when the check arrives.

"Some women act as if Queen Victoria is alive and well. They'll be damned if they'll put any money on the table," says Sandy Bierce, a 26-year-old New York Stock broker.

Artificial Heart Poses Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long quest to construct an implantable artificial heart, drawing steadily closer to realization, raises a disturbing number of questions, a panel of scientists has warned the government.

Some of the moral, ethical, legal and social questions have the potential for emotioncharged controversy. The scientists said these issues should be resolved before the artificial organ is made available to the estimated 50,000 people whose lives it might save each year.

An advance copy of the National Heart and Lung Institute report, which will be published in two months, was obtained by The Associated Press.

The NHLI is spending about $5.7 million this year on artificial heart and related research and has put at least $36 million into the project since its inception. The Atomic Energy Commission is spending $2.2 million this year and has spent a total of more than $9 million since 1967.

A totally implantable artificial heart is now being tested in animals. The report said it might be as much as 10 years before such a device is generally available to the public, but limited human experimentation may be much closer.

"We believe that development of the totally implantable artificial heart should proceed," the 10 lawyers, doctors, sociologists, ethicists and political scientists said.

But they listed a series of issues that must be resolved that included:

—Cost. At $25,000 per patient, the artificial heart will strain current health care financial systems. Unless financial support is made available to all who need the artificial organ, it may become a life-saving device accessible only to the rich.

—Selection of recipients. Once the organ becomes clinically available, it is unlikely there will be sufficient hearts, implantation teams or medical centers immediately to accommodate everyone who would die otherwise. Selection should be made on a medical basis only, resorting to lottery in case of shortages for patients with equally dire medical situations. In no case, the panel urged, should patients be selected on the basis of "social worth."

—The definition of death. How will doctors determine the point of death for persons with a mechanical pump that can continue circulating blood after other organs have died, the panel asked. Doctors and lawmakers should begin now to resolve the legal questions, the report said.

Former Top Aides Gain Identities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Was it Haldeman or was it Ehrlichman? Richard A. Moore thought a moment and then apologized to the Senate Watergate committee.

"I sometimes find it hard to recall which was which," said the special White House counsel who had worked with both for several years.

During the 4½ years that John D. Ehrlichman and Harry Robbins Haldeman formed the innermost circle of advisers around President Nixon, a lot of people shared Moore's confusion. But the picture is clearer now.

For a week former domestic affairs adviser Ehrlichman, heavy-set and dark-browed, testified before the Watergate committee and firmly, sometimes defiantly, maintained his innocence and his rightness.

Haldeman, Nixon's former chief of staff, followed Ehrlichman to the witness stand Monday afternoon.

There is no confusing the two physically. Haldeman is tall and lean, his light hair worn in a crew cut.

But he's just as firm as Ehrlichman in maintaining he did nothing illegal.

At 46, Haldeman is two years younger than Ehrlichman, whom he has known since both were students at UCLA. But Haldeman's relationship with Nixon goes back much farther than Ehrlichman's.

Haldeman was a volunteer worker for Nixon in the 1956 campaign and has worked in every Nixon campaign since then. In 1960, he recruited his old college friend Ehrlichman.

Phone Talks Resume

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Contract negotiations between General Telephone Co. of Ohio and striking employees were to resume today after a three-day recess.

The suspension of talks after three days of bargaining was asked for by company officials to review a new wage proposal by the union.

No details of the new proposal were announced.

About 2,800 Communication Workers of America went on strike July 16 in a dispute over wages.

Originally, the company offered a seven per cent wage hike while the union asked for a 10 per cent boost.

Since the strike began, the company said, service outages as a result of cable cuts and line damages have cost $675,000 to repair.

and neither smokes or drinks. Like the President, both wear enameled American flags on their lapels and Haldeman even shares Nixon's fondness for cottage cheese lunches.

Married and the father of four, Haldeman is a home movie buff. One of his favorite subjects was Richard M. Nixon.

On April 25, 1973, word got out that Haldeman was no longer presiding at meetings of senior White House aides.

On April 30, the President announced he had reluctantly accepted the resignations of Haldeman and Ehrlichman "two of my closest friends and most trusted assistants."

Priests Hurt In Ambush In Philippines

MANILA (AP) — Government troops in northern Mindanao are attacking Moslem insurgents in an area where an American and an Irish priest were wounded in an ambush, informed sources reported today.

The priests were the Rev. Donald Kill of Ohio, who had two ribs broken by a bullet, and the Rev. Patrick Riedy, superior of the Colombian Fathers in Occidental province, who received minor cuts from broken glass.

Father Kill, who was ordained about a year ago, was taken to a hospital in Cebu.

The priests were ambushed Friday north of Pagadian, a major coastal town in northern Mindanao about 500 miles south of Manila.

They were in a pickup van with a woman who had suffered a miscarriage the day before when rebels attacked a filling station in Tucuran, a small town, and killed the owner and his daughter. The woman and eight relatives accompanying her were unhurt in the ambush.

Frequent ambushes since the end of June have driven most traffic off the roads throughout the area Sur and virtually cut off the port of Zamboanga, 130 miles south of Pagadian, from its sources of food and trade in the interior.

The army attack was reported hitting the Tucuran area hardest, and several hundred refugees were reported to have fled to Pagadian.

The social welfare department is wrestling with the largest refugee problem in Philippine history as a result of the Moslem rebellion in the southern islands. According to department figures, 203,943 families totaling 1,125,159 persons have been displaced since early this year by the fighting in Mindanao and the Sulu islands.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

Showers in the wake of a cold front are expected in Ohio today, according to the National Weather Service, with a chance of the same situation continuing on Wednesday.

Skies were partly cloudy across the state Monday night and showers were reported in the northwest portion where Toledo had around a quarter of an inch of rain. Elsewhere in the state, conditions were dry, although showers and thundershowers were occurring in portions of Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky.

These showers are expected to spread east and northeastward into Ohio later Tuesday, ahead of a cold front situated Tuesday morning from Lower Michigan to Oklahoma. The front is forecast to move eastward into northwestern Ohio Tuesday afternoon, continuing slowly beyond Ohio Wednesday.

A chance of showers continuing Wednesday following the front is predicted, but the outlook for the remainder of the week is for fair weather, with temperatures a little on the cool side.

Bibby Hurls No-Hitter For Texas

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Things are looking up now," said Jim Bibby. The Texas Rangers pitcher couldn't have been any more "up" against Oakland.

He had his fastball up, down and everywhere else—within the strike zone, that is—and had the world champion A's flailing away helplessly.

And when the flailing ended Monday night, Bibby had 13 strikeouts—and a no-hitter!

Not only was Bibby up. So was his salary. Rangers' owner Bob Short, in a moment of exuberance that seemingly ignored baseball's dictum barring performance bonuses, gave the 28-year-old right-hander a $5,000 raise...not bad considering Bibby had a contract with the big-league minimum of $15,000 on the bottom line.

Oakland's Vida Blue, a strikeout artist in his own right and an expert in the no-hit department, was on the short end of the Rangers' 6-0 triumph. He was the victim of Jeff Burroughs' grand-slam home run and Bill Sudakis' solo blast, both in the first inning. Getting a no-hitter is new to Bibby—but getting close isn't. He's thrown a one-hitter, a two-hitter and a pair of four-hitters since coming to the Rangers in a June 6 trade with the National League's St. Louis Cardinals.

In the rest of the American League, the Chicago White Sox belted the Minnesota Twins 9-1, the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees 4-3 and the Detroit Tigers held off the Baltimore Orioles 4-3.

White Sox 9, Twins 1

Jim Kaat entered the game at Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium with a 29-10 lifetime record against Chicago. Now it's 29-11.

The White Sox sent Kaat to the showers with a four-run sixth as Pat Kelly walked, Jerry Hairston tripled, Bill Melton singled and Buddy Bradford tripled.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 3

Jim Ray Hart's ninth homer of the baseball season, a two-out shot in the top of the ninth, averted a defeat for the Yankees—but only temporarily. In the bottom of the ninth, Rico Petrocelli, who had hit a two run homer earlier, led off against New York's ace reliever, Sparky Lyle, with a single, took second on a wild pitch, moved to third on a grounder and came home on Rick Miller's single, giving the Red Sox a 4-3 victory.

Tigers 4, Orioles 3

John Hiller saved Detroit's 4-3 victory with a "pitch that never got there."

With two men on base, Paul Blair of the Orioles struck out on a ninth-inning changeup which bounced in front of the plate. The Tigers' ace reliever replaced Mickey Lolich after Andy Etchebarren's two-run homer had cut into a lead built on solo homers by Dick McAuliffe, Duke Sims and Jim Northrup.

Phillies Shut Out Pittsburgh, 1-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Steve Carlton, Bob Boone and John McSherry teamed up to help the Philadelphia Phillies blank the Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0.

That's Carlton...as in pitcher...Boone...as in catcher...and McSherry...as in umpire.

Carlton, 1972's Cy Young Award winner, hurled a six-hitter, walked one and struck out 10. But it took a fluke play in the seventh inning of the Monday night game to preserve the shutout.

Vic Davalillo, a pinch runner, was at first base with two out when Dave Cash rapped a single past third baseman Mike Schmidt. It might have gone for extra bases but the ball struck umpire McSherry and caromed toward left fielder Greg Luzinski and Davalillo had to stop at second. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch but Rennie Stennett struck out to end the threat.

A 27-game winner last season, Carlton boosted his 1973 mark to 10-11 and finally got his earned run average under 4.00...to 3.98.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs shaded the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 5-2, the Montreal Expos took two from the New York Mets 10 and 5-2 in 10 innings and the Atlanta Braves downed the Houston Astros 7-3. Cincinnati and San Diego were not scheduled.

Cubs 3, Cards 1

Rick Reuschel allowed only five hits in outdueling Bob Gibson and pitching the Cubs to within 1½ games of the Cardinals in the NL East. It marked

Republicans Win Baseball Game, 12-4

BALTIMORE (AP) — Circumstances prevent big Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell from offering a low profile, but he does look less imposing way out in center field.

That's where the Republican congressman from North Carolina plays in exile, more or less, since being banished from taking the mound in the annual baseball game against the Democrats.

But even without the pitching of Mizell, who won 90 games in the major leagues, the Republicans took a 12-4 decision Monday night. It was the 10th straight victory for the GOP, which now leads the series 11-1.

Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois remained unbeaten while notching his 11th victory, with two innings of relief help from Rep. Bill Cohen of Maine in the four-inning contest.

Reps. Alan Steelman of Texas, Will Hudnut of Indiana, and William Keating of Ohio each drove in two runs for the Republicans, while Rep. Lou Frey of Florida rapped out three of his team's nine hits. Rep. Andrew Young of Georgia had two RBI for the Democrats.

Mizell, who struck out seven Democrats in two innings in his debut in 1969, no longer is allowed to pitch. "I don't complain, though," he said. "It's every pitcher's dream to play center field and hit in the cleanup spot."

"They must not have checked my lifetime average of .111," Mizell said after being walked twice in three trips to the plate as the No. 4 hitter. He scored two runs, however, stole a base, and started a double play after catching a fly ball.

One Republican run scored on a balk, one during an unsuccessful rundown play between first and second base, and another when the Democrat first baseman, Rep. Walter Fauntroy of the District of Columbia, sort of double dribbled a ground ball.

There were lots of stolen bases, but no break-ins, on both sides, many illegal lineup changes, and an outfield caucus between two Democrats which allowed a ball hit by Steelman to fall for a single.

Secretaries from Capitol Hill acted as cheerleaders for both teams, although their plea to "hit it again, harder," sounded more apropos for football.

Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, the GOP manager through the entire series, was named his team's most valuable player. For the Democrats, the honor went to Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana.

"I don't know how long I can pitch," said Michel, a former baseball star at Bradley University. "When you reach 50, you start thinking of slowing down—even in congressional games."

"We're like the old Washington Senators' baseball team, which won the Grapefruit League in the spring and then finished last in the American League," Mizell said of his GOP team. "We win the games in the summer, and lose the elections in the fall."

Simpson Shows Optimism Over Coming Season

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

O.J. Simpson, recently recovered from a viral infection, now has a case of early season optimism.

"I'm optimistic about the coming season," said the Buffalo Bills' star running back, "but of course you're always optimistic at this point."

But Simpson, who has suffered through four losing seasons in Buffalo since bringing his football talents east from the University of Southern California, does have reason to think the Bills' football fortunes are on the upswing.

"I think I can rush for a lot more yards this season than last," said Simpson, the NFL's leading rusher in 1972 with 1,251 yards and six touchdowns. "With guys like Reggie McKenzie, Donnie Green and Dave Foley (members of the Buffalo offensive line) up there, it's going to open things up."

Monday Simpson traded his hospital uniform for a football uniform and suited up for a full practice session.

The Oakland Raiders held their annual training camp Family Day over the weekend and became one big happy family Monday after the arrival of tackle Bob Brown and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff.

Brown reported to camp Sunday night. Biletnikoff, leading receiver in the AFC last season with 58 receptions, reported Friday after threatening to hold out for more money.

In the only trade of the day, the Denver Broncos sent wide receiver Matt Maslowski, a 6-foot-2, 210-pound second-year man out of the University of San Diego, to the Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed amount of cash.

The San Francisco 49ers lost a tight end but gained a wide receiver when they moved veteran Dick Witcher back to his old starting job.

Coach Dick Nolan was forced to switch Witcher, who was the backup for tight end Ted Kwalick last year, to wide receiver after losing three players at that position to preseason injuries.

Meanwhile, Coach Harland Svare of the San Diego Chargers said he may spare quarterback Johnny Unitas, 40, obtained from Baltimore in the off season, from the onslaught of opposing defenses in preseason games.

"I want him there in September," said Svare. "If there's any question about his physical condition for Saturday night (when the Chargers meet the New York Giants), he won't go." After playing with the College All-Stars, two-time All-American Rich Glover from Nebraska, made his debut in the New York Giants camp.

"The Giants' defense with a middle guard is just right for me," said the 6-1, 242-pounder. "Sure, I have a tough job in front of me, trying to beat out John Mendenhall. He has experience over me, but I feel just as soon as I get everything down I'll have a good chance."

Minnesota Vikings' defensive back Karl Kassulke made some improvement but remained in critical condition, a spokesman at Methodist Hospital in suburban St. Louis Park said.

Brown 'Tailors' Cincinnati Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— This is the week Cincinnati Bengals Coach Paul Brown dwells on "tailoring" his football team—an alteration designed to find the best fit for a strongest suit.

Ruth Hangen Wins Horseshoe Crown

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Ruth Hangen of Getzville, N.Y., won her fourth consecutive women's world horseshoe pitching championship Monday night, defeating Lorraine Thomas of Lockport, N.Y., 50-39.

Mrs. Hangen won all seven of her matches; Mrs. Thomas was 6-1, and in third at 5-2 was Opal Reno of Lucasville, Ohio.

In the division for junior girls, up to age 18, Rosemary Gibson, 14, of Anderson, Ind. won the crown with a 7-0 match record, defeating Lynn Harrison, 13, of Hamilton, Ohio, who won five of seven matches.

Dean Martin Signed By Cavaliers

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The Cleveland Cavaliers have signed Dean Martin, who was a standout for four years at Baldwin-Wallace College, to a National Basketball Association contract.

Martin, who was the Cavs' 10th round draft choice, "has some good tools which may be better than his college career showed," Cavaliers' General Manager and Coach Bill Fitch said. Martin led B-W in scoring and rebounding for four years and set a school scoring record with his career total of 2,062 points.

He also holds the B-W single season scoring record of 576 points, which he set as a sophomore.

Gay Irish Victor In Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gay Irish won the featured eighth race by two lengths over Canadian K Monday night at Scioto Downs.

The winner was timed at 2:05 2-5 to pay $3.60, $3 and $2.60. Canadian K placed for $6.40 and $6.20. Show horse Eleven-Thirty paid $7.60.

The 6-6 combination of King Ross and Success Creed paid $28.80 in the nightly double.

ANSWERING THIS QUESTION TAKES COURAGE:

When you bought your life insurance it probably was adequate to take care of your family. But would it provide enough money the way prices are today?

An engine out of tune can burn 25% more fuel

A rough, untuned automobile engine throws your money away—and throws America's precious energy supply away, too.

Good driving habits save money and energy. For example, fast starts can reduce gasoline mileage by as much as 6 miles per gallon!

Americans can't afford to waste energy. There are many ways every American can help save it. Write today for a free copy of "A Consumer's Guide to Efficient Energy Use in the Home." It's packed with ideas that can save energy and money.

AT YOUR SERVICE:

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to take care of the usual work required of you, if you are to have surroundings and self in the pink of condition. Get out the various gadgets and detergents that make all sparkle. As well as do the various tasks facing you in a highly efficient manner. Help those less fortunate, too.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) No matter where you may be today, you are able to get work done that is important to your advancement. Do whatever will improve the state of your health, also. Take the right treatments. Retire early and rest.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Make yourself as attractive as you can so you create an excellent impression. Join good friends at parties. Don't forget to pay an important bill that will improve your credit rating.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find the right way to get your home more attractive and functioning better. Avoid any arguments there. Rid yourself of whatever stands in the way of your advancement. Think along more constructive lines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Showing others you do your shopping, errands efficiently is important now. Search out the books, periodicals that have the data you need. Take it easy tonight and be happy with kin.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) You want to have a larger income and can now find the right methods for so doing. First decide where you can cut down on expenses. Sit down with experts and get their advice, which can prove very valuable.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Study yourself well and see how to improve your appearance and charm, and make others respect you more. Get into the social gatherings that mean the most to you. Make new friends who can be valuable to you in the future.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You have many personal tasks to take care of and should do just this and forget the social for the time being. Try to help one who is having rough sledding. Show you are a true humanitarian.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Spend more time with a person you want to know better who could prove helpful to you in the future. Get out to that meeting where you can add to present roster of friends. Show you are an excellent conversationalist.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Taking care of any public matters is wise today and you can do so in a most efficient and careful way. Handle that credit matter satisfactorily, also. A higher-up gives you the helping hand you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Study new projects that are fascinating to you; you can very likely advance through them. Making contact with persons whose ideas are different from yours is fine. Learn much that way.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Get responsibilities behind you with speed today and make sure you know better what your mate's expectations are. Trust your intuition so you know how to get along better with the one you love. Think.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Listen with care so you know exactly what an associate expects of you, then state your own views clearly. Some service you give others now can be most helpful, far more than you realize. Show generosity.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who would do well in scientific work in laboratories, research, diets, and should learn early to communicate with others wisely. Be sure to slant the education along such lines, and give courses in psychology, also. Ethical training early is important. Teach while young not to get bogged down with detail that is relatively unimportant, or this could diminish much of the big success possible here.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This year's fall television premiere will be the most drawn out ever. And it might not be a bad thing.

Debuts of the new shows will stretch from Monday, Sept. 10, until the end of October. The reason, of course, is that the 16-week strike by the Writers Guild of America hit the studios and networks just as they were gearing up for the season.

All but a handful of the series are back in production. The remaining few will go before the cameras in the next few weeks, with probably the latest start set for "Kojak" on Aug. 22.

The networks have not always premiered their new shows in the same week. But one network isn't going to give another the competitive edge, and about three years ago they settled into the present pattern of all starting at the same time.

From the networks' point of view, starting all the shows together in early September makes a lot of sense. Summer vacations are over, schools are back in session, the football season's started and cooler weather and shorter days are just over the hill.

Most important, it ties the premieres into one neat package that can be efficiently promoted into an "event." It's much easier to generate excitement about a single premiere week than a lot of odd starting dates.

But it's always struck me that the networks are somehow missing the boat—and doing a disservice to the viewer and to the film industry.

The viewer is forced to gulp down all the new shows at once. Then by March—except for the midseason replacements—it's all reruns and downhill until September again.

As a viewer, I'd prefer a more flexible system of new shows scattered throughout the year.

TV for the film industry has become strictly a seasonal business of feast or famine. They scramble for a while then sit on their film. It severely limits the amount of work that a writer or actor or director or technician can do. Production that was not limited to a single starting time would allow the industry to become more stable and provide longer periods of employment.

500-Pound Bear Killed In City

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A 500-pound black bear was killed in a tree after a wild pursuit by police.

The bear was first reported by a motorist who called police headquarters and said, "You're not going to believe this, but..."

Officers didn't, until a similar report came in from a policeman patrolling the area.

Officials said they had no idea where the bear came from or how it got here.

Road Paving Contract Awarded To Van Camp

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday awarded the contract for the county road resurfacing program to George Van Camp Co.

The only bid submitted, it was in the amount of $101,777.85. The engineer's estimate for the project was $102,042.76.

In other business Monday, commissioners agreed to accept the deed for Wintergreen Hills Sewage plant and to establish the sewer district. The Wintergreen Hills subdivision is located in Washington Twp. Developer Robert Cole and his attorney, Roy Huffer, met with commissioners to discuss operation of the new sewer district.

Commissioners decided to add fire coverage to the insurance package for the new hangar at the Pickaway County Memorial Airport. The building is insured with Hummel and Plum.

Representatives of the Darbyville Council, Mrs. Vanessa Schatz and Mrs. Beverly Rothgab visited the commissioner's office Monday to discuss village problems of street and alley maintenance and resurfacing.

Mrs. Effie Davis of the Pickaway County Health Department, informed commissioners a county resident had been referred to a tuberculosis hospital for treatment.

Commissioners Robert Liston, Dick Tootle and Wayne Hines were present Monday.

Love Urges Realistic Stand On Nation's Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's new energy chieftain, John A. Love, is calling for more "pragmatism" in balancing the nation's energy needs against protection of the environment.

"I am afraid we are faced with two imperatives—the environment and energy—and we cannot take an extreme view on either end," Love told a House Banking Subcommittee Monday.

He said it was no solution "to have all the energy you need if you can't breathe" or to have "the cleanest air in the world and have no energy."

Love had been asked by Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., "if we can continue to make the energy demands we have and still make the (environmental cleanup) policy commitments we have?"

"We are going to have to bring a greater pragmatism ... a greater balance ... to it," Love replied.

He said energy is important "not only to our way of life but to our personal freedom. It is so vitally interwoven in our life it is hard to realize doing without it."

In answer to other questions, Love said he didn't believe the oil companies had conspired to withhold gasoline supplies from the market or to raise prices, that Congress should hold hearings on the deregulation of new natural gas supplies and, in at least a partial agreement with Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., said government action had not furthered the success of energy policies.

Crane had asked specifically about the retarding effect of environmental controls on atomic energy generating plants.

"The number of nuclear power plants is far below those forecast as needed," Love said, but he said the reasons were a combination of "environmental concerns, siting problems and, to be honest, technical problems so that it has not come along as far as it should have."

Newark Mayor Fires Officers On 'Sick' Call

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Richard Baker fired some of the city's 68 patrolmen Monday after they failed to report to work, and calling in sick.

The "Blue Flu" epidemic was a protest over wages and benefits, a union spokesman said.

In the meantime, some of the 62 firefighters also reported sick. Firemen were not fired by the Mayor.

Baker said he invoked the Ferguson Act which bars strikes by public employees in critical jobs. He said the continued absence by the policemen was a strike.

City administrators have not released the number of employees fired.

The two civil servant groups joined forces to demand a $1,837.50 per person pay raise over the next two years. In addition, they asked for a boost in their clothing allowance.

An attorney for a newlyformed coalition of police and firemen said the job action was only a strike in the mayor's eyes.

"The boys are on sick call, and they're going to stay out. If the mayor wants to hire 60 policemen and 60 firemen, then that's what's he's going to have to do," said attorney Virginia Weiss.

"The department is running as normal with men held over from the preceding shift and the men that did come in," said Fire Chief Eugene Malloy.

The job action began Sunday morning.

Jury Verdict Against Hunt

A guilty verdict returned by the 12 jurors seated on the Earl Hunt case and a penitentiary term imposed as the young man's sentence today.

Jurors returned with their decision after two hours of deliberation, finding Hunt, 26, of New Holland, guilty of issuing a forged check at the Kroger supermarket in March.

Testimony was closed yesterday afternoon and the case turned over to the jury. Jurors debated their answer until 6 p.m. Monday, when Judge William Ammer dismissed them to return to their homes.

The affirmative vote of all 12 jurors on the guilty verdict was presented to the court at 10 a.m. today, in Hunt's presence. Judge Ammer refused to grant the probation request of Hunt's attorney, Dennis Kitchen, and imposed the 1 to 20 year sentence for Hunt in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Circleville Band Invited To State Fair

The Circleville High School Band has been invited to participate in the marching band festival at the Ohio State Fair Aug. 23.

The contest begins at 8 a.m. Bands are divided into two classes according to the size of the school and Circleville will be in the class for larger schools.

The contest is in two phases, an elimination phase and a play-off phase.

Red Meat Supply Outlook Darker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Domestic supplies of red meat for the rest of the year are not expected to exceed the supply of the last six months of 1972, the Agriculture Department Outlook and Situation Board says.

The board's predictions, announced Monday were much more pessimistic than those offered earlier in the day during a press briefing by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who contends the long range livestock situation is in good shape.

Butz said, "the cattle are out there," with farmers taking advantage of good range conditions and also delaying taking their animals to slaughter because the freeze on retail beef prices will not be lifted until Sept. 12.

The secretary, who referred to beef as "our national meat," said a glut on the fall market is possible and that could cool high prices some.

The two major points Butz and the situation board agreed on were a prospect for more beef on the hoof headed for slaughter next year and still high consumer demand, which worked out to 115 pounds per person last year.

The board summarized the outlook for livestock and meat this way:

—Beef output will be down a little, and pork production will be about the same as it was the end of last year.

—With a 9 per cent smaller lamb crop, and a 15 per cent drop in summer and fall slaughtering, the output of veal, lamb and mutton will be down sharply.

—Larger beef imports will not be enough to offset reduced domestic supplies.

—Rising feed costs, bad weather, the consumer boycott and government price controls led to reduced domestic supplies and high prices.

—This year's beef calf crop is estimated to be up about 6 per cent, the sharpest rise in nine years, pointing to an increase in the 1974 feeder-cattle supply.

—More pork per hog is offsetting a decrease in the number of hogs being led to slaughter. However, since the lifting of the price freeze July 18, weekly pork prices have exceeded $50 to 100 pounds, an index slightly above the fed-cattle market. That level should drop with the lifting of the price ceilings on the competitive beef market, the board said.

Honorary Chairman For Ashville Breath Of Life Campaign Named

Mrs. Harold Hartley has been named Honorary Campaign Chairman for the Breath of Life Campaign in Ashville by the Central Ohio Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Mrs. Hartley will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support the programs of care and treatment which are provided for Cystic Fibrosis patients at Children's Hospital and research to find a cure for this life-threatening disease.

Cystic Fibrosis, thus far an incurable disease, is inherited when both parents carry the defective gene. It is believed that one in twenty persons carries the C-F gene, usually without knowing it. Because of improved therapy and constant research, many C-F patients are living beyond infancy and into young adulthood.

Mrs. Hartley will join with Dawn Ackerman, poster child for the Central Ohio Chapter, in the overall effort to encourage people to contribute to the fight against Cystic Fibrosis. Dawn suffers from Cystic Fibrosis and each night she sleeps in a mist tent which provides moisture to loosen the thick mucus that collects in her lungs and endangers her breathing.

"It is for children like Dawn that I am asking that all of you give generously when one of our marchers knocks at your door," said Mrs. Hartley. The Breath of Life Campaign will begin Sept. 9 and continue until Sept. 17. This has been designated as "Cystic Fibrosis Week" in the United States.

Auto Recovered By Sheriff

Pickaway County Sheriff's Department recovered a stolen vehicle on the Bell Station Road 10 p.m. Monday.

The car, owned by Gene Barthlemas, Sharon Road, was reported missing by William Barthlemas, 119 Park St.

He told the Circleville Police Department the car was taken while it was parked in front of 364 E. Union St., sometime between 3:30 and 6:40 p.m. Sunday.

Lancaster Police Department received a call from an unknown person advising the auto was parked at the Bell Station location.

The car was found abandoned in a ditch.

Sheriff's Deputy J. Philip Brown recovered the auto.
